(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NORFOLK, VA., February 1.—The fourth annual dance of the Norfolk German Club, and one of the social events of the season, occurred Friday night at the Thon Club, and was largely attended. It was one of the social affairs of the midwinter season. The cotillon was led by Mr. Wallington Hardy and the number of participants was large. The dances given this year by the club have been unusually successful and have well sustained the social reputation of Norfolk's leading social organization.

Mrs. R. P. C. Sanderson entertained last week at her apartments in the Tazewell at a delightful evening party. The prizes were won by Mrs. T. W. Kite, Mrs. Thomas Scott, and Miss Julius Lynch drew the consolation.

The Norfolk College Alumnae I. M. Saunders Chapter gave a social reception to members Thursday night at the residence of Mrs. H. H. Pegues, No. 225 Redgate Avenue. The affair was largely attended.

A delightful tea was given last week aboard the U. S. S. Wasp by Mr. Clancy. Covers were laid for five. Those present were Mrs. J. C. Ricketts, Mrs. Lillian Warkent, and Lieutenant Campbell, U. S. N.

Waynesboro Social News.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WAYNESBORO, VA., February 1.—The cantata held at the Baptist Church Monday evening was a success in every respect. For many months the local talent had been training, and with the visiting male quartette from Staunton, Va., they presented a most faultless performance. The management deserve a great deal of credit for their untiring energy and good judgment, both of which are required to present a cantata so faultlessly.

Mrs. William J. Loth entertained at cards for her guest, Miss Nell Talbot, on Saturday night last, and the affair was one of the most brilliant social functions of the season in Waynesboro. There were ten tables, at each of which a merry evening was spent. Mrs. Loth's home was brilliantly lighted, and presented a handsome appearance, as did also the elaborate costumes of the ladies.
